COVER: The AIA Tower in Raleigh is both the headquarters of the North Carolina chapter of the American Institute of Architects and a symbol of the durability of the state's architectural profession. The Tower, which was built in 1887 by the Raleigh Water Works, is a Raleigh Historical Site and is listed in the National Register of Historic Places. Abandoned as a water tower in the early 1900s, the structure was bought by architect William Henley Deitrick in the 1930s to serve as space for his practice. In 1963, Deitrick deeded the property to the NCAIA, which renovated the building and still occupies it. The North Carolina Architectural Foundation is currently raising funds to improve, rehabilitate and update the 99-year-old Tower. Photography by Gordon Schenck.

Recyclable Asphalt Pavements. Like putting money in the bank.

Hot plant mixed asphalt pavements are the most readily reclaimable road building material known. Recycled asphalt is easy, economical, and effective. In most cases, your cracked, potholed, or bumpy pavement can be milled to a new, smooth profile – with every bit of the old pavement used in the new surface. Plus, recycled asphalt pavements maintain the same properties of smoothness, durability and economy that you obtained with the original pavement.

Sure, other paving materials can be included as part of a new asphalt pavement, but you truly maximize your recycling potential when you start with asphalt.

To learn how you might save by using recyclable asphalt pavements, contact your local CAPA member firm.

ARCHITECTURAL EDUCATION

Three N.C. schools offer programs for professionals

Three universities in North Carolina offer programs leading to degrees for architects or engineers.

Here are summaries of the programs at the three universities, compiled from material submitted to the NCAIA by the deans of the schools:

N.C. STATE

The department of architecture at N.C. State University in Raleigh was established in 1948 as one of two original academic components in the School of Design.

Under the guidance of founding Dean Henry L. Kamphoefner, the School of Design experienced a long period of creative and intellectual development. Designers and theorists such as Buckminster Fuller, Matthew Nowicki, Lewis Mumford, Eduardo Catalano and others joined the faculty in the school's early years and helped build a reputation for innovation and experimentation.

Throughout this early period, the architecture department offered a single degree, the five-year bachelor of architecture. In the late 1960s, the department altered its course and adopted the now-common "4+2" master of architecture curriculum to accommodate emerging professional and academic issues and to provide new opportunities for students to pursue non-traditional as well as traditional educational paths. The bachelor of architecture degree was phased out in 1972.

The department of architecture offers three degree programs:

1. Bachelor of Environmental Design in Architecture (BEDA)—a four-year pre-professional curriculum that serves as the foundation for the two advanced programs. The curriculum includes a balance of general studies (English, mathematics, science and humanities), design studio courses and architectural support courses (history, technology, methods and theory).

2. Bachelor of Architecture (B. ARCH)—a one-year professional curriculum that builds on the four-year BEDA program.

3. Master of Architecture (M. ARCH)—a two-year professional curriculum that follows a four-year pre-professional program in architecture. Additionally, applicants with the B. ARCH degree are accepted for an intensive one-year program, and applicants with degrees in non-architectural fields may apply for a four-year graduate program.

The M. ARCH is a first professional degree accredited by the National Architectural Accrediting Board. As such, it satisfies educational requirements for professional certification established by the various states and the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards.

The B. ARCH program, which will be examined for initial accreditation in 1985, will provide similar qualification for professional registration.

Admission to the architecture degree programs is competitive.

Application to the undergraduate BEDA program is made to the School of Design, which annually admits 100 to 120 freshmen and transfer students to the common first-year "Design Fundamentals" program. Students begin their architectural studies in the second year. For information about undergraduate admissions standards and procedures, contact the School of Design, NCSU, Box 7701, Raleigh, N.C. 27695-7701 or call (919) 737-2201.

Admission to the B. ARCH and M. ARCH programs is by application to the department of architecture. Creative ability, superior academic achievement and promise of professional accomplishment are criteria sought in applicants. For additional information, contact Robert Burns, Head/Department of Architecture, School of Design, N.C. State University, Box 7701, Raleigh, N.C. 27695-7701 or call (919) 737-2206.

There are approximately 600 students in the School of Design, 300 of whom are in the architecture department. From 200 to 230 students are in the BEDA program, with the remainder in the advanced programs. The architecture department awarded honor degrees to 30 percent of the 1984 and 1985 BEDA recipients.

UNCC

The College of Architecture at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte was founded in 1969 and graduated its first students with professional degrees in 1976, the same year Charles C. Hight was named dean.

In July of 1984, the school received its second consecutive five-year accreditation from the National Architectural Accreditation Board.

The curriculum is organized so that students acquire a common body of general and architectural knowledge and skills while investigating societal and professional issues and subjects, many of which are of individual interest. Thus there is a balance between theory and application, general and professional education, intuitive and rational thinking, process and product, analysis and synthesis, common experience with opportunity for individual experimentation and skill development with intellectual maturation.

To assist students who desire a secondary concentration, the program is structured so a person may develop a double major or minor in another field such as engineering, earth science, business administration or behavioral science. The curriculum is organized in three sections:

1. The Foundation Program—

During the first two years, students are enrolled in general educational and architectural courses. The comprehensive studios, which occur each semester, focus upon acquiring the fundamentals of: graphic development, exploration of visual form, development of problem solving and conceptualization skills as well as architectural form relationships with physical environmental, human needs and technology.

Architectural history courses in the second year give students an understanding of the evolution of architectural form and ideas, as well as their relationship to society.

2. The Middle Program—In the first semester of the third year, all students use the previously acquired knowledge and skills in the holistic design of relatively small-scaled buildings which are site specific. These endeavors include investigation of various architectural issues and ideas. In the following three semesters, students enroll in optional "topical studios."

Also, students take at least four architectural elective courses. These seminar/lab options include: exploration of applied visual form, graphic development, architectural readings and theory, urban design, architectural preservation, solar energy, programming, light/acoustics, study of communities and real estate development.

Upon completion of the fourth year, the bachelor of arts in architecture degree is awarded and students may apply for the fifth year.

3. Advanced Program—The fifth-year program, which is composed of students from UNCC and other schools, provides a balance between individual and collective professional studies. In the fall semester, students engage in a series of common design studies for the purpose of further developing their abilities to conceptualize, solve problems and deal holistically with architectural projects set in natural and urban environments. At the same time, students complete selection of their individual thesis and develop an appropriate program.

Upon completion, the professional bachelor of architecture degree is awarded.

The full-time faculty is augmented by a comprehensive visiting architects program.

The 270 students enrolled in the College of Architecture include a freshman class of approximately 72 students, one half of whom have prior college experience. Selection of students is based on SAT scores, prior academic record, the portfolio of creative work, quality of the applicant's letter of intent and personal interview.

Admission to the fifth-year program requires completion of a bachelor of arts in architecture, bachelor of environmental design or other related studies. Consideration for acceptance includes study of the student's previous academic record and professional activities, the personal statement of study intent and portfolio of creative work. When appropriate, a personal interview may be required.

More detailed information may be obtained by writing the Office of Admissions, UNCC, Charlotte, N.C. 28233, or the College of Architecture, UNCC, Charlotte, N.C. 28211.

N.C. A&T

The department of architectural engineering was founded at N.C. Agricultural and Technical State University, Greensboro, in 1918.

It has been accredited as an engineering program for nearly 20 years.

Strong emphasis is placed on training in the building sciences and on training in engineering as it applies to the design and construction of buildings, says acting department chairman Reginald Whitsett.

Instruction in the department is organized under four divisions:

1. Graphics, architectural design and architectural history.
2. Environmental control, electrical and mechanical equipment of buildings.
3. Professional practice, management and materials and methods of construction.
4. Structures.

The five-year program in architectural engineering offers 160 semester hours leading to the bachelor of science degree.

Enrollment has leveled to approximately 200 undergraduate students. Students are admitted to the department based on class rank and scores on standard aptitude tests.

Faculty members have backgrounds in city and urban planning, structural engineering, mechanical engineering and architecture.

More information can be obtained by writing: Reginald Whitsett, acting chairman, Department of Architectural Engineering, N.C. A&T State University, Greensboro, N.C. 27411. □

NATIONAL COUNCIL SETS CERTIFICATION STANDARDS

The National Council of Architectural Registration Boards was established in 1920 to assist member boards in carrying out their duties, to foster the enactment of uniform architectural laws, to develop examinations and establish standards for certification requirements in education and training, to perfect its procedures for verifying the qualifications of applicants and determining their eligibility for certification and to establish and maintain reciprocal registration between states having registration laws.

The NCARB is a non-profit corporation with all legally constituted boards of architecture in the United States as members.

To be eligible for NCARB certification, architects must submit satisfactory evidence that they comply with the standard for education, training, examination and character and have been registered by a member board.

The NCARB will, upon request of an individual architect, secure, authenticate and record factual data of the applicant's education, training, practice and character. This record will be forwarded to any state board upon request of the applicant.

Certification shall be given an applicant holding a council record verifying that the applicant has complied with the council's standards of education, training, practice and character; and that the applicant has passed an examination conforming to the council's standards of content, extent and length of time.

Certification by the NCARB is recommendation to all registration authorities that registration be granted to the holder without further examination. Most member boards accept NCARB certification as conclusive evidence of an architect's eligibility of registration. It is, however, not a national registration.

Complete information on compilation of a council record and obtaining council certification can be obtained from:

BOARD OF ARCHITECTURE HAS GOVERNED SINCE 1915

The North Carolina Board of Architecture, established by the legislature in 1915, is responsible for administering the practice of architecture in the state. The board is comprised of seven members appointed by the governor, five of whom are licensed architects. Two non-architects represent the public at large.

Current officers and board members are: Tai Y. Lee, Waynesville, president; Lloyd G. Walter Jr., Winston-Salem, vice president; Herbert P. McKim, Wilmington, secretary/treasurer; John L. Atkins III, Chapel Hill, member; Walter L. Bost, Charlotte, member; Harold Barnes, public member; and Doris H. Moore, Yanceyville, public member.

North Carolina requires registered architects to be at least 18 years old, have a degree in architecture from a college or university with an approved five-year degree program, be of good moral character and have successfully completed a licensing examination in architecture as specified by the rule of the board. Equivalent professional education and practical training may, in some cases, qualify an applicant to take the examination.

Individuals holding a current license for the practice of architecture from another state and a certificate of qualification issued by the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB) may, upon application and at the discretion of the board, be licensed without taking the written examination.

ARCHITECTURAL FOUNDATION AIDS EDUCATIONAL CAUSES

The North Carolina Architectural Foundation was started in December 1963 to provide resources for educational and charitable causes.

One of its early purposes was to assist the North Carolina Chapter of the American Institute of Architects rehabilitate its Tower Building as an historic place.

The foundation has collected and distributed funds for student fellowships and scholarships and for support of university faculties. In addition, the foundation awards a fellowship to the N.C. State University School of Design in honor of William Henley Deitrick.

Although the foundation no longer takes direct responsibility for soliciting contributions from architects for the North Carolina Design Foundation at N.C. State or for fund-raising at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, it continues to provide financial assistance for some education programs in architecture and architectural drafting at schools in the state.

Since 1970, the Foundation has contributed more than $92,000 to these educational institutions. This includes an annual $1,000 Fellowship to the School of Design in memory of William Henley Deitrick. This grant is largely supported by a bequest from Mr. Deitrick.

In 1983 the foundation gathered and later expended funds for the continued restoration of the AIA Tower, which is listed in the National Register of Historic Sites and is named as a Raleigh Historic Site.

The Foundation accepts and solicits contributions and bequests to be used for purposes in keeping with the standards and regulations of the Foundation. The Chapter office will give further information.

The Architectural Foundation must retain its position as a financial resource for education and other purposes in accordance with its

The Foundation's strength and support has been diminished by the effects of inflation and policy directives that have reduced its role in solicitations for contributions. It is now time to reverse this trend. It is the stated policy of the Directors to undertake a solicitation for support of the Foundation and its program. The participation of all NCAIA members shall be encouraged in order to meet this goal. □

WHERE DO ROOFING SPECIFIERS GET THEIR SPECIFICS?

Experienced specifiers call on "The Source" — better known as the N.B. Handy Company. Professional specifiers have come to realize if a roofing product is worth knowing about, Handy has it.

During the nearly 100 years we've been in business, Handy has earned the reputation as an industry leader in supplying and recommending roofing systems, tools and equipment. And we're known for doing it on time and on budget.

But we're a lot more than just roofing suppliers.

We also offer our customers the expertise and advice of a special team of roofing specialists who regularly assist architects and engineers in selecting the best roof for their particular job. This team, named Division 7, has been developed in recent years because new roofing technologies have expanded so rapidly that many tried and true methods are no longer cost effective. Division 7 fills the knowledge gap by providing up-to-the-minute information and a seasoned perspective on the most advanced systems by Firestone and other industry leaders.

So give yourself the same advantage that roofing specifiers enjoy. Complete and mail the coupon, or call N.B. Handy today.

☐ Please send me your information packet on roofing systems.

100% Solite concrete masonry units provide functional, attractive, cost effective walls for RJR.

With a stunning display of consistency in texture and color for its lightweight blocks, the new R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company plant dominates the landscape near Tobaccoville (NC).

Complete quality control over the lightweight aggregate masonry units resulted in creating an impressive look of beauty for the largest concrete masonry project in the southeastern United States. More than 1.8 million 8" equivalent units for the building were delivered and laid over a 16-month period from December, 1983 to March, 1985.

The Reynolds criteria — high quality block.

In meeting this goal for plant design, the architectural/engineering firm of Rust International specified fine textured, pure lightweight aggregate masonry units—with the majority to be left exposed, either painted or unpainted. Strict compliance with specifications was to be a must.

Working closely with Solite, the block manufacturer, Lightweight Block-Eden Corp., produced to R.J. Reynolds specifications.

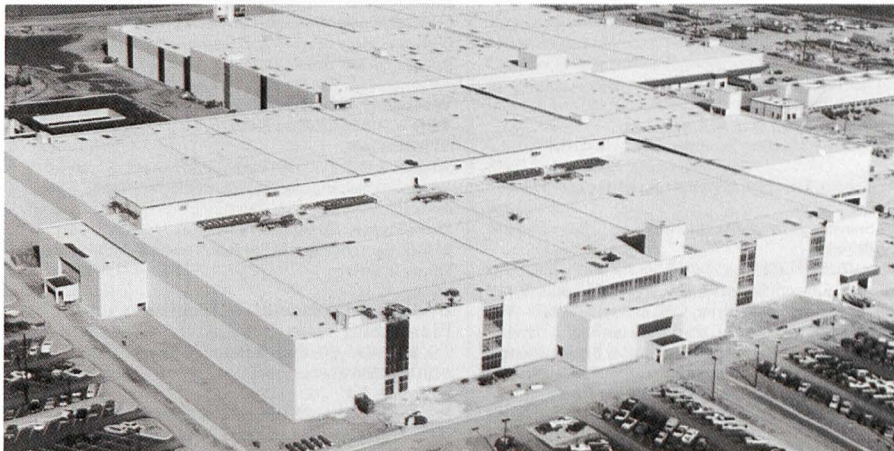

Quality control checks.

An approved block face shell was distributed to those involved at the block manufacturer's plant and on the job site as a quality control check for both texture and color. Metal measurement gauges within 1/16" tolerance were developed by Snow, Jr. & King and used to check uniformity of sizes.

Morrison-Knudsen Company, Inc., the construction management firm directing the project, inspected blocks as delivered to insure uniformity in size, texture and color.

Consistency of texture and color — key to a successful project.

Using pure Solite aggregate according to specifications resulted in a project noteworthy for its handsome look and craftsmanship. Instead of walls showing a mixture of hues, the color of the masonry units presented an unbroken consistency. And the texture of the 100% pure Solite block was consistent as well.

Setting new standards for the block industry.

Faced with rigid completion schedules, masonry contractors Snow, Jr. & King, Inc. came up with a virtually flawless masonry project. Productivity of the masons was increased due to the extra lightness of the masonry units.

Johnny Johnson, project manager for Snow, Jr. & King, commented, "I have been in the masonry contracting business for 35 years and these pure Solite blocks were the best I have ever used. Not only were they lighter in weight than we are used to, but they were the most consistent in color, texture and size.

"If architects and owners could see

"These pure Solite blocks were the best I have ever used."

Johnny Johnson, Project Manager, Snow, Jr. & King.

their projects go up like this, they would use more and more masonry."

Most cost effective alternative.

In building envelopes, pure Solite aggregate block repays its cost with insulation and fire-resistive values that reduce energy and insurance bills. Keeps on saving, year after year.

Pure Solite masonry units also offer excellent durability, strength and light weight—together with superior acoustical properties, thermal inertia and architectural design flexibility.

For proof of the true beauty and savings, take a look at the R.J. Reynolds Tobaccoville facility. Better yet, come back in 10 to 50 years.

WHAT DOUGLAS AIRPORT DID TO KEEP ITS ENERGY COSTS FROM SOARING.

When they began to plan Charlotte's new airport, the people at the Airport Authority expressed great interest in an area that is also of great interest to us at Duke Power.

Energy efficiency.

Out of this mutual interest came a cooperative working relationship between their engineers and our experts. Which eventually resulted in an innovative airport facility designed to keep energy costs to an absolute minimum.

For instance, sky-lighting is used wherever possible to utilize the sun's light. Energy storage devices are employed to store energy during off-peak hours as a way of cutting the airport's peak demand charges. Extra insulation in the walls and ceilings results in lowered heating and cooling costs. And much more.

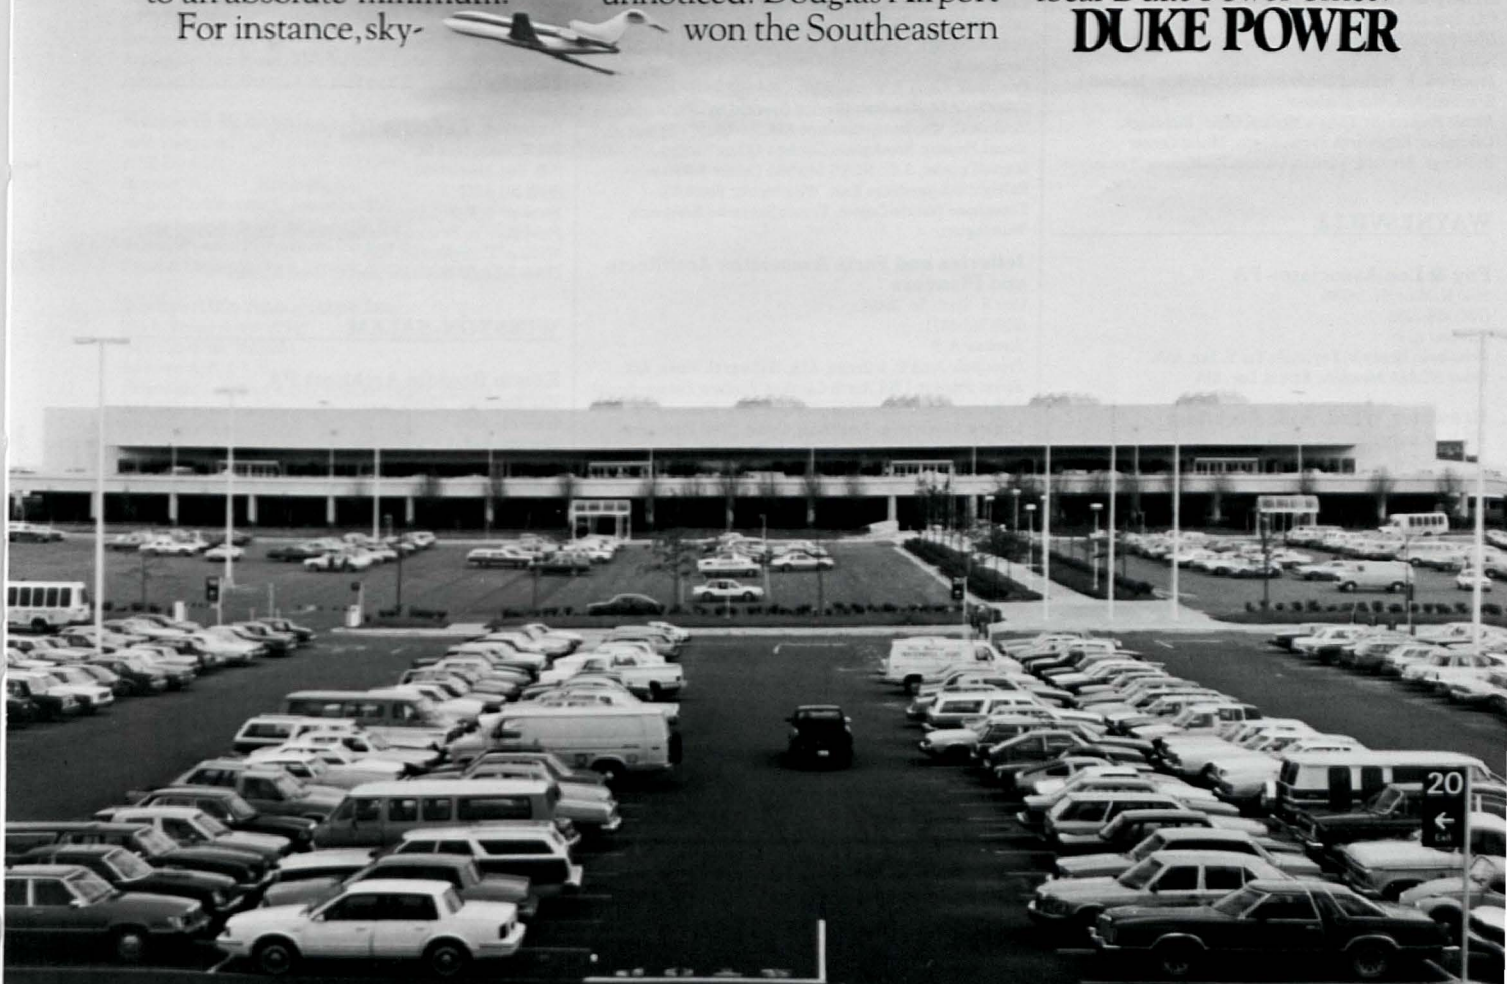

The significant lowering of energy costs produced by these efforts hasn't gone unnoticed. Douglas Airport won the Southeastern Electric Exchange's 1983 Energy Efficiency Award.

Obviously, you don't have to have a facility as large as Douglas Airport to realize significant energy savings. Nor do you have to have a new building. There are lots of energy saving ideas you can put to work today. And we'd like to help.

For more information on making your facility more energy efficient, contact your local Duke Power office.

MIRAFI PRESENTS MIRADRAIN™ PREFABRICATED DRAINAGE STRUCTURES

Original Miradrain
4000 2-sided
drainage

NEW Miradrain
6000 1-sided
drainage

The proven alternatives to aggregate drains

Miradrain prefabricated drainage structures consist of a waffle-like plastic drainage core covered on one or both sides with Mirafi filter fabric.

MIRADRAIN 4000

The original Miradrain 4000 is ideally suited for 2-sided drainage applications such as bench cut or trench cut drains and pavement edge drains.

MIRADRAIN 6000

New Miradrain 6000 is specifically designed for applications where drainage is needed only on one side. This prefabricated drainage structure has higher compressive strength and flow rates than most competitive systems. Plus, its single-sided configuration is ideally suited for waterproofing applications such as foundation and retaining walls.

Wecolator

Handi-Lift

Liberty
Wheelchair Lift

For nearly fifty years, the Cheney Wecolator™ Stairway Elevator with its unique cog-drive has helped people to get up and down stairs. It's designed for a wide variety of curved and straight stairways, even spirals.

The Liberty™ Stair Lifts provide safety and reliability in a space efficient design. Nobody offers a better, lower cost solution for straight stairways.

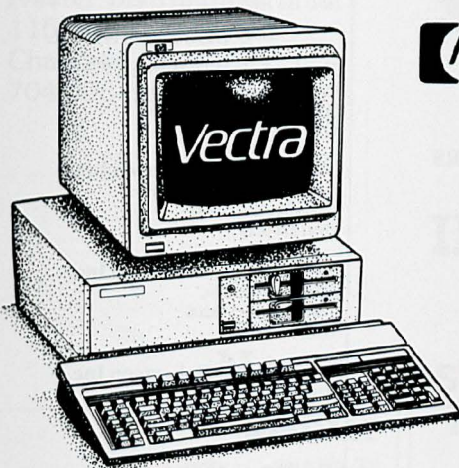

The Handi-Lift® Vertical Wheelchair Lift allows installation in confined areas, yet has a lifting range of 4 to 12 feet. Where a restrictive access is required, you'll find the Handi-Enclosure™ unsurpassed for safety and ease of installation.

The Liberty™ Wheelchair Lift adapts to straight stairways, even those with intermediate landings. All Cheney products comply with ANSI A.17.1.

For more information on how Cheney can help you solve access problems, write Judith Godwin or call 1-919-779-6574.

Make optimum use of natural light, create a sense of open space, and enhance interior comfort with PC GlassBlock® partitions, walls, and windows. They combine the efficiencies of opaque walls with the design opportunities of light-transmitting glass.

Beautiful, yet practical, facades are created with Pittsburgh Corning's SOLAR REFLECTIVE Glass Block. Buildings reflect and blend harmoniously with the environment. And the highly reflective, thermally bonded oxide surface coating reduces both solar heat gain and transmitted light. Available with either a bronze or gray appearance.

GUARANTEED WALL PROTECTION

We guarantee our PERMASNAP COPING COVER SYSTEM against water leakage. Period. The secret is a styrene gutter chair at each joint that quietly carries water away.

We also make sure the system stays in place. Without expensive wood nailers or imbedded anchor bolts. A special adhesive replaces them. And it sticks against 60 lbs. per square foot of uplift.

Permasnap Coping Covers are also simple to install. (It has to do with the "snap" in the name, but it's simpler if you see it for yourself.)

Available in Canada

All in all, it's a pretty simple system. Only three parts. And we guarantee all of them. Specify Hickman.
